The French Army Retreating on Metz.

BERLIN, August 5 .- A dispatch dated Berlin, August 5.—A dispatch dated near Weissenburg, at six o'clock Thursday evening, says: "We have won a brilliant but bloody victory. The left wing attacked. It consisted of the fifth and sixth Prussian corps and the second Bavarian. This force carried by assault, under the eyes of the Prince Royal, the fortress of Weissenburg and the heights between Weissenburg and Geisburg. Douay's division of Marshal McMahon's corps was splendidly defeated, being driven from its camp. Gen. Douay was killed. Five hundred prisoners were captured, none of them prisoners were captured, none of them wounded. Many Turcos are among the captured. The Prussian General Kerschack was slightly wounded. The royal grenadiers and the fifth regiment of the line suffered heavy losses.

line suffered heavy losses.

Berlin, August 7.—The French have been defeated along the entire line in two day's fighting, and are in retreat on Metz, and concentrating for the defense of Paris. Their losses are immense.

McMahon was beaten on the right, and

The Prussians captured four thousand prisoners, thirty guns, and six mitreilleurs from McMahon.

Berlitn August 8.—Gen. Steinmentz tel-egraphs the following particulars of the contest between Gen. Von Goeben and the French force under Gen. Frossard:

The fight was opened on our side by the Fourteenth Division, which was afterwards reinforced by artillery and cavalry. A fierce and bloody struggle raged along the line between Saarbruck and Forbach, lasting until night. The heights of Spleicheln were carried at the point of the bayonet and the enemy thrown back on Meanwhile our Fifteenth Di-Forbach. vision had advanced from Voeklynger and taken Rossell and reached Forbach at nightfall, when, the broken divisions of the French army being driven from that point, their baggage, the camp equipage of two Divisions and many prisoners were taken.

At the Prussian headquarters at Treves the rumored capture of Saar-Louis is unconfirmed.

The Prussians saved the engines, cars,

&c., that were at Saarbrucken. The correspondent of the Times, for whose truitworthiness and neutrality the Times vouches, says the French at Saar-brucken captured no canzon. The French lost forty killed and sixty wounded. French force employed was 30,000, and the Prussian 6,000. The artillery won the fight, little infantry and no cavalry being engaged.

The Times says: "The plan of the Prussian commander-in-chief, General Moltke, has changed from defensive to offensive. An advance into France is threatened. If possible, Prince Frederick Charles will push forward and attack Nancy. The fight at Saarbrucken, on Saturday, lasted six hours, and, on both sides, six hundred men were placed hors du combat. Judging from the French accounts, the mitreilleurs have already decided the war."

The story which recently originated in France about a naval engagement at Coxhaven, in which a Prussian war vessel was sunk, is false. There has been no collision at all on water between France and Prussia thus far, The French say that the needle gun recolls so badly that the marksmen are soon compelled to fire from the shoulder.

The French also say that the Prussian cavalry carry old horse pistols, while the French have carbines of long range and admitted aim.

The fifth corps of the Prussian army is mainly composed of Poles.

PARIS, August 8.—The remainder of the Garde Nationale is to be incorporated with the Garde Mobile. The two corps will be organized in a single body at once.

The Journal Official says the relations of France with other powers is satisfactory, and late events have developed rather than weakened this feeling.

The same paper contains the following dispatch:

on Saturday Gen. Colson was shot by McMahon's side. Gen. Raoul is missing.

Metz is preparing for a vigorous defense." The Journal adds that the relations with foreign governments, not prejudiced by Saturday's events, on the other hand, de-velopes the significant fact that what governments desire, in common with France, is maintenance of European equilibrium. Berlin, August 3.—King William has issued a proclamation at Mayence, assuming supreme command of the army.

LONDON, August 4.-It is rumored that the Bavarians are averse to fighting for Prussia.

Papal committees in France, Ireland, Holland and Belgium are raising recruits for the protection of the Pope.

The ports of England are rapidly filling up with North German vessels, anxious to escape French cruisers.

The Prussians have one hundred thousand reserves from Berlin.

Forage is scarce on the Rhine, and the Prassian horses are suffering. Antwerp, August 4.—Belgium is negotiating for a new line of steamers to take the place of the German Loyds and the Hamburg line. Lisbon, August 4.—The decree of Portugal's neutrality is published.

Paris, August 4.-Duke de Gramont has issued another circular reaffirming that the aggressive proposition originated in Berlin. France made none, but on the contrary, commenced her disarmament. Count Von Bismarck bases his proposals or this anxiety about the plans of Russia, and gems and metals which Duke de Gramont temporarily withholds.

The Duke concludes by saying that owing to the falsehoods Bismarck has already uttered through fear, he has lost all claims to be believed hereafter.

Fourteen Prussian soldiers captured at the attack on Saarbruck passed through this city late yesterday afternoon. Part of them were on their way to Belmont, and part to Thionville, where they will be imprisoned.

LONDON, August 7.—The Prussians claim they will have eight hundred thousroops on the theatre of war evening.

The rumor of the purchase by Prussia of Stevens' battery is discredited here.

The Journale Officiel, of Paris, denies the loss of any cannon or eagles at Weisenburg.

Advices from Rome state that the French disasters cause profound terror, and the Pope has asked Empress Eug nia for just one ship to defend him from the Italians now organizing for an attack on the Papal dominions and authority. LONDON, August 8.—The Times says: "This is a momentous question, whether the Emperor's health leaves him in possession of his ordinary faculties. The war is marked by his usual hesitation, to which is attributable the random and purposeless strategy, and puzzling inaction which have brought calamity to the National arms. The Emperor is now bound to accept battle instantly, yet he has on hand the task of concentrating his forces and restoring the spirias of his defeated army while the enemy are concentrating in the heart of Lorraine. Circumstances will soon exact the reappearance of England in the character of a mediator. The Orleans princes are prodigal of their money in relieving the wounded of the French army, Ships still enter the Elbe and Weisser rivers, notwithstanding the blockade. Pleasure travel continues in Switzerland, despite the excitement the war occasions. The increase of bank notes had a favora-ble effect on the grain market, by purging it of speculative operators on borrowed cap

The following county officers were elected for the ensuing term: J. J. Duncan, Judge of the County Court; James Sharp, Clerk of the Cipcuit Court; M. B. Strunk, Clerk of the County Court, and Wm. Sharp, County Register.
Owing entirely to the scarceness of our tickets, and unusual excitament eyer the election of county officers, the vote for judicial officers was very light. Plenty of tickets had been started to our county, but they are generally supposed to have gone by Confederate X Roads. Through the influence of Judge Brown - own presence for three or four days, together with hundreds of his tickets and anonymous circulars scattered all over the country, he did get 15 votes in our county. This is undoubtedly the worst blunder that our county has ever made in her whole political history. While we cannot beast of having done much this time, we can boast that our party has never loss twenty votes in any one election in our county since 1861. We expect to have our best man before us for Congress in November next. Old Scott promises to be six hundred solid.

Yours traily.
